

URGENT

Mike Yeadon ex Chief Scientist at Pfizer has stated that It is now too late to save any person who has been injected with any COVID-19 vaccine He urges those who have not yet been injected with the deadly compound to fight for the continuation of humans, and the lives of their children The world acclaimed immunologist goes on to outline the process which he says will kill the vast majority of people now alive Immediately on receipt of the first injection around 0.8% of people die within 2 weeks The survivors have a life expectancy of 2 years on average, but this is decreased with every top-up or "booster" infection

Supplemental vaccines are in development to cause degradation of specific organs - including heart, lungs, and brain. Having been intimately acquainted with the functioning and goals of research and development of the pharmaceutical giant. Pfizer for 2 decades. Professor Yeadon states that the final goal of the currently administered regime of vaccinations can only be a mass depopulation event, which will make all the World Wars combined seem like a Mickey Mouse production

"Billions are already condemned to certain, unchangeable and agonizing deaths Each person who has received the injection will certainly die prematurely, and 3 years is a generous estimate for how long they can expect to remain alive."
